

Michigan State University Supply Chain Management Position

Michigan State University's Eli Broad College of Business, Department of Supply Chain Management, has an opening for a tenure system assistant professor with expertise in purchasing/sourcing to start in the 2022-2023 academic year. Duties include research, teaching, and service and the teaching responsibility would involve purchasing/sourcing courses in the undergraduate program. Salary and terms are negotiable depending on experience.

The position requires a Ph.D. or equivalent degree from an accredited university. Candidates must have a demonstrated record of research excellence in purchasing/sourcing and supply chain management. From a topical perspective, preference will be given to candidates who conduct theoretically driven empirical research on managerially relevant, contemporary purchasing/sourcing topics. From a methodology perspective, candidates with data science and data analytics among their expertise will be given priority. Candidates must have the ability to teach at the undergraduate and MBA levels.

Review of applications will begin September 29, 2021 and continue until the position is filled. To ensure full consideration, applications should be received by October 25, 2021. Applications must be submitted online at: <http://careers.msu.edu>. Refer to posting #730681.

For additional information, please contact Dr. Tobias Schoenherr, Search Committee Chair, Department of Supply Chain Management, Michigan State University, East Lansing MI 48824-4480. E-mail: schoenherr@broad.msu.edu.

All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, citizenship, disability or protected veteran status.