

PhD candidate in responsible innovation

100 % / Limited for 4 years / Bern

What you'll be doing here

- exciting research at the interface of responsible management and innovation
- opportunity to obtain a PhD from our german partner university
- support the design and conduct of innovative industry and teaching projects
- contribute to fulfilling the general responsibilities of the Institute Innovation & Strategic Entrepreneurship

What you'll bring with you

- excellent degree in business, management, innovation or related topics (masters or equivalent)
- extended knowledge in the topics of innovation and strategic management as well as corporate social responsibility
- application ready methods knowledge in qualitative or quantitative empirical research methods
- endurance and the willingness take a deep dive in scientific work
- solid communication skills in English and preferably German

Department of Business

In the Department of Business, we offer an education with a clear practical emphasis for the digital change-makers of the future in the economy and society. Content we love to engage with includes topics such as New Work, digital business or public sector transformation.

I'll be your guide through the application procedure

Christine Kohler
HR consultant
P +41 31 848 44 97

For job-specific queries

Sebastian Gurtner, Head of Institute Innovation & Strategic Entrepreneurship
P +41 31 848 34 27

All details at www.bfh.ch/jobs