Faculty Research

Researchers at the Gustavson School of Business are committed to researching topics that have the potential to shift how we think of business and management; we value multidisciplinary and collaborative research and we recognize that complex management problems rarely occur in isolation. In the last 5 years, 65% of our peer-reviewed journal articles were interdisciplinary in nature (cross business disciplines) and 30% were multidisciplinary (intersects with non-business fields such as law, psychology, computer science, health care, education and history).

You will be studying with world leading experts who have been recognized for their impactful research through international awards and federally funded grants. Over the last 5 years, selected accomplishments include being recognized on the Clarivate Analytics Highly Cited Researchers List, receiving the JIBS 50 Years Silver Medal Award for Exceptional Contributions, elected as a member of the Royal Society of Canada, acknowledged as a Fellow of the Academy of Management, and our faculty are receiving collectively over $4.5 M in national and international grants.
